India's Lakshman Rekha against terror is drawn. If crossed the response will be powerful, precise, and on our terms."

"If Pakistan dares to carry out another terror attack, our armed forces will respond by hitting them within their dens," said the Prime Minister, while addressing armed forces personnel at Adampur Airbase in Punjab.

"We have suspended Operation Sindoor, not called it off. New India wants peace, but it cannot tolerate attacks on humanity," he said. Highlighting the success of "Operation Sindoor," PM Modi said the Indian forces not

MEA dismisses Trump's claim of brokering ceasefire deal India's military response compelled Pakistan to seek talks

Sajid Raina

NEW DELHI: Dismissing US President Donald Trump's recent claim that he brokered a ceasefire between India and Pakistan, the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) on Monday clarified that it was Pakistan that approached India for a cessation of hostilities, following a strong retaliatory offensive by Indian forces.

Addressing a news conference here, MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal, as per the news agency—Kashmir News Observer (KNO) said that India's military response compelled Pakistan to seek a ceasefire. "The call from Pakistan's side was received at 12:37 PM on May 10. Due to technical issues, they faced difficulties in establishing the connection, and finally the conversation between the DGMOs (Directors General of Military Operations) took place at 15:35 hours," he said laiswal confirmed that an understanding on ceasefire was worked out between the DGMOs. "We had mounted attacks on Pakistan that morning. It was the force and clarity of India's military response that compelled Pakistan to seek talks," he said.

As for Kashmir, Jaiswal reaffirmed India's long-standing position: "We have a long-standing national position that any issues pertaining to the Union territory of J&K have to be addressed by India and Pakistan bilaterally. That stated policy has not changed. As you are aware - the only outstanding matter is the vacation of the illegally occupied territory by Pakistan i.e. Pakistan Occupied Jammu and Kashmir (POJK)."

The MEA spokesman said that the next round of DGMO talks will be communicated "as and when scheduled" and stressed that the government remains committed to defending the country's sovereignty and ensuring justice for victims of terrorism.

"The message from India is loud and clear – terrorism will not go unanswered," Jaiswal said.

On May 11, Trump had said he is proud that the USA was able to help India and Pakistan arrive at the ceasefire agreement, and added that he would work with both countries to see if a solution can be arrived at regarding Kashmir. In a post on his Truth >>SEE ON P-7

Massive Exercise Underway To Clear Border Villages Of Unexploded Shells

KC NEWS NETWORK

RAJOURI/JAMMU: The bomb disposal squads of Army and police are undertaking a major exercise in Jammu and Kashmir's border villages to defuse the unexploded artillery and mortar shells fired by Pakistan.

Chief Secretary Atal Dulloo said they are monitoring the situation and will facilitate the return of the displaced border residents after getting clearance from the security agencies and will also ensure early compensation to those whose houses were damaged in the indiscriminate shelling on civilian areas.

The officials said dozens of unexploded explosives were destroyed by the experts along the Line of Control (LoC) in Rajouri and Poonch districts and along the International Border in Jammu and Samba which witnessed intense cross-border shelling and drone attacks from May 7 to May 10.

The intensity in the shelling from Pakistan intensified on May 7 after the India armed forces carried out missile strikes at nine terror targets across the border under Operation Sindoor in retaliation to Pahalgam terror attack on April 22 that had left 26 persons, mostly tourists, dead.

The ceasefire violations from Pakistan had started from north Kashmir immediately after the Pahalgam terror attack and extended to the areas along the LoC and IB in Jammu division, prompting effective retaliation by Indian troops before the deadly four-day-long clashes.

As many as 28 persons were killed and over 50 others injured in the cross-border shelling which also forced over 2 lakh border residents to move out and take refuge at safer places. A good number of them have already returned to their villages over the past three days.

However, many more are still waiting at relief camps set up by the government for the green signal from the

Cautious Calm Returns To Kashmir Border Villages

Waris Fayaz

SRINAGAR: After days of deafening shelling and sleepless nights, a fragile calm has returned to the border villages of Jammu and Kashmir on Tuesday, with markets partially reopened and residents cautiously resumed daily activities.

Border areas in Baramulla, Kupwara, and Gurez in the Kashmir Valley, as well as villages in Jammu affected by cross-border shelling and forced evacuations following the Pahalgam terror attack and subsequent Indian retaliation under Operation Sindoor, had descended into silence. Homes were emptied, and shops remained shut, reflecting the widespread fear and displacement. Locals of Kashmir's border areas speaking to the news agency-Kashmir

News Observer (KNO) said the recent calm has brought a much-needed sigh of relief after days of relentless fear and displacement.

"We want peace, not war. War brings nothing but destruction," a local shopkeeper at Uri, whose shop reopened for the first time since the hostilities began, said. "Our children deserve to live in peace and focus on their education, not grow up in fear and uncertainty."

Many residents echoed similar sentiments, urging both countries to maintain the ceasefire and prioritise the well-being of people living along the Line of Control (LoC).

On Monday, the residents of several Uri areas were allowed to return only after security forces

Will Modi Govt Conduct Kargil Review Committee-Type Exercise On Pahalgam, Asks Cong

NEW DELHI: The Congress on Tuesday said its repeated demands for a Prime Minister Narendra Modichaired all-party meeting and a special session of Parliament assume even greater urgency and importance in light of the statements from Washington DC.

The opposition party also asked whether the Modi government will conduct an exercise similar to the Vaipavee government that set up the Kargil Review Committee on July 29, 1999, three days after the Kargil War ended.

'Three days after the Kargil War ended, the Vajpayee Government set up the Kargil Review Committee on July 29 1999. Its report was tabled in Parliament on February 23, 2000 although sections of it have remained classified as indeed they must," Congress general secretary in-charge Jairam Ramesh said in a post on X.

The Committee was chaired by India's strategic affairs guru K. Subrahmanyam, whose son is now India's External Affairs Minister, he said.

"Will the Modi Govt now conduct similar exercise on Pahalgam, notwithstanding the NIA probe?" Ramesh said.

"Given the statements from Washington DC, the INC's repeated demands for an all-party meeting TO BE CHAIRED BY THE PM himself and for a special session of Parliament - which is now scheduled to meet at least two and a half months from now - assume even greater urgency and importance,"

Ramesh's remarks come a day after President Donald Trump reiterated his claim that his administration stopped "nuclear conflict" between India and Pakistan, telling the South Asian neighbours that America will do a "lot of trade" with them if they end hostilities.

"On Saturday, my administration helped broker a full and immediate ceasefire, I think, a permanent one between India and Pakistan, ending a of nuclear weapons," Trump said at the start of a press conference in the White House where he announced that he will set 30-day deadline for drugmakers to lower cost of prescription drugs.

He started the briefing by describing the historic events that took place over the last few days in the Indian subcontinent. India and Pakistan reached an understanding on Saturday to end the conflict after four days of intense cross-border drone and missile strikes.

Indian government sources in New Delhi have been maintaining that the Director Generals of Military Operations (DGMOs) of India and Pakistan reached an understanding to stop all firings and military actions on land, air and sea, with immediate effect. They said no third party was involved.

Trump said that India and Pakistan were going at it hot and heavy, and it was seemingly not going to stop.

"I'm very proud to let you know that the leadership of India and Pakistan was unwavering, powerful, but unwavering were from the standpoint of having the strength and the wisdom and fortitude to fully know and to understand the gravity of the situation," Trump has said.

The US President said he told India and Pakistan that America will do "a lot of trade" with them if they stop the

"And we helped a lot, and we helped also with trade. I said, 'Come on, we're going to do a lot of trade with you guys. Let's stop it. Let's stop it. If you stop it, we're doing trade. If you don't stop it, we're not going to do any trade'".

Trump added that "People have never really used trade the way I used it, that I can tell you. And all of a sudden they (India and Pakistan) said, I think we're going to stop". "And they have, and they did it for a lot of reasons, but trade is a big one. We're going to do a lot of trade with Pakistan. We're going to do a lot of trade with India. We're negotiating with India right now. We're going to be soon negotiating with Pakistan, and we stopped a nuclear conflict," Trump said.

China presents united front with Latin America, aiming to counter Trump's trade war

TAIPEI (TAIWAN): China is moving to strengthen its alliances with other countries as a counterweight to President Donald Trump's trade war, presenting a united front with Latin American leaders at an event Tuesday in Beijing.

China's leaders have positioned the world's secondlargest economy as a reliable trade and development partner, in contrast to the uncertainty and instability from Trump's tariff hikes and other policies.

On Monday, Beijing and Washington announced a breakthrough on tariffs after weekend talks in Geneva, Switzerland, where they agreed to cut skyhigh tariffs on both sides for 90 days to allow for negotiations. Having moved to defuse antagonisms with the US, Chinese President Xi Jinping said China stands ready to "join hands" with Latin countries "in the face of seething undercurrents of pure political tariff wars or trade wars," Xi said, reiterating a phrase China has cultural and academic exchanges and global security to build closer ties between and bloc confrontation and the China and Latin American surging tide of unilateralism nations.

Oppn Will Question Govt At All-Party Meet About Trump's Claims On Brokering 'Ceasefire': Kharge

KALABURAGI (KARNATAKA): Congress President Mallikarjun Kharge on Tuesday said that the opposition will question the government at the all-party meeting, regarding US President Donald Trump's claims that his administration helped broker a "ceasefire" between India and Pakistan.

The Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha said he will urge the government to call an all-party meeting soon, to discuss the latest developments in border tension between India and Pakistan, including "ceasefire".

Speaking to reporters here, he said, "Trump is saying things to claim credit. These people (PM and central government) are saying no. It is a sensitive matter. When an all-party meeting is called, we will discuss – what's the matter, what happened and what were the telephone talks—and ask all these things".

In response to a question whether PM Modi gave in to Trump's mediation, he said

"It won't be right for me to speak about it now. We have our party meeting today. I'm going for that.

I will ask (centre) to call an all-party meeting, let's see what they will do." India and Pakistan reached an understanding on Saturday to end the military conflict after four days of intense cross-border drone and missile strikes.

Indian government sources have been maintaining that the Director Generals of Military Operations (DGMOs) of India and Pakistan reached an understanding to stop all firings and military actions, and no third party was involved.

There was no reference to trade in talks between top leaders of India and the US during the India-Pakistan military conflict, government sources said on Monday after American President Donald Trump claimed that he pressured New Delhi and Islamabad to stop hostilities by threatening to cut trade with both countries.

The source-based clarification came after Trump on Monday said he forced the two countries to stop the hostilities by using the trade card.

Hakeem Yaseen Seeks Compensation For Cross-Border Shelling Victims SRINAGAR: President of the Jammu and Kashmir Peoples Democratic Front (PDF) and former minister, Hakeem Muhammad Yaseen, on Tuesday welcomed the recent ceasefire and restoration of normalcy in the border areas of Jammu and Kashmir.

He expressed gratitude to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the security forces for their firm response during the crisis, which helped de-escalate tensions and safeguard civilian lives.

In a statement issued to the press, Hakeem Yaseen emphasized that the fight against terrorism must continue with full force until it is completely eradicated. However, he stressed that the pursuit of peace must be accompanied by long-term plans that prioritize the well-being of the region's residents, particularly those living in vulnerable border areas.

"The return of calm is a welcome development, but the government must now shift focus to the rehabilitation of border residents who have suffered immense losses due to cross-border shelling," Yaseen

He called for an urgent and comprehensive assessment of the damage to homes and properties and demanded that affected families be provided with adequate compensation and assistance for reconstruction.

"The government has a moral and constitutional responsibility to not only ensure the safety of its citizens but also to restore their dignity and means of livelihood," he stated.

The PDF chief further highlighted the plight of the Gujjar, Bakerwal, and Chopan communities, whose seasonal migration to highland pastures is essential for their survival. He raised concern over the continued restrictions in these areas, which have prevented shepherds from accessing traditional grazing lands for their cattle, sheep, and goats.

"While combating terrorism is absolutely necessary, it should not come at the cost of our own people's livelihoods," Yaseen said. "These communities have depended on these pastures for generations. Their exclusion from these areas threatens their only source of income, pushing them deeper into poverty."

He emphasized that while tourism and civilian movement may understandably be restricted in sensitive zones due to security concerns, the needs of local residents—especially those engaged in traditional occupations like pastoralism—must be handled differently and with empathy.

Renewable Energy

India's renewable energy sector has emerged as a global leader in the transition toward sustainable energy, achieving remarkable milestones in 2024. With the country's total non-fossil fuel energy capacity reaching 217.62 GW as of January 20, 2025, India is steadily progressing toward its ambitious target of 500 GW by 2030. Solar energy continued to dominate the renewable landscape. contributing 47% of the total installed renewable capacity. In 2024, India added a record 24.5 GW of solar capacity, including 18.5 GW of utility-scale installations, a 2.8-fold increase from 2023. States like Rajasthan, Gujarat, and Tamil Nadu led this growth, collectively accounting for 71% of the nation's utility-scale solar additions. The rooftop solar sector also saw a significant surge with a 53% increase, adding 4.59 GW of new capacity, bolstered by the PM Surya Ghar: Muft Bijli Yojana. This initiative enabled over seven lakh rooftop installations within ten months, reflecting the government's focus on energy accessibility for urban and rural households alike. Wind energy also experienced notable growth, with 3.4 GW of new capacity added in 2024, marking a 21% increase compared to the previous year. Gujarat, Karnataka, and Tamil Nadu emerged as the leading contributors, collectively accounting for 98% of the new wind installations.

As India enters 2025, addressing these challenges becomes critical to sustaining the pace of renewable energy adoption. The roadmap ahead involves further expanding domestic manufacturing under initiatives like Atmanirbhar Bharat, strengthening energy storage solutions, and fostering private sector participation to drive investments. The push for green hydrogen as a viable clean energy alternative will also require focused attention to reduce costs and enhance scalability.

India's achievements in renewable energy are a testament to its commitment to sustainability and innovation. By overcoming existing hurdles and maintaining policy support, the nation is wellpositioned to achieve its 2030 targets and inspire other countries to adopt cleaner, more sustainable energy pathways. The renewable energy sector not only represents a cornerstone of India's climate goals but also highlights its potential to lead the global energy transition toward a greener future.

Bihar Education Project Council: Vehicle of Educational Revolution in Bihar

WEDNESDAY | 14 MAY 2025

Bihar has been presented as a challenge in the execution of any action plan. In the 90s, all the indicators related to education in Bihar were negative. Enrollment rate was very low, especially among girls and those below the poverty line, and the dropout rate was the highest compared to the national ratio. The education system in the state was crippled due to community and administrative apathy towards schools. To deal with these difficult circumstances, the Government of India, Government of Bihar and UNICEF jointly accepted the challenge of universalization of primary education and in April 1991, the outline of an educational program called "Bihar Education Project" was designed. For the implementation and operation of this project, an autonomous statutory body "Bihar Education Project Council" was established on 13th May 1991 under the administrative control of the Education Department, Government of Bihar and a senior officer of the Indian Administrative Service was made its State Project Director.

The main objective of the Council is -"To speed up the all-round development of Bihar through educational reconstruction." The Council has seven core principles for managing and conducting the educational programs, namely - Education is a medium of change, everyone's support, teachers are the pivot of educational development, equality towards women and their empowerment, social justice and not administration but a mission.

Under the banner of Bihar Education Project Council, the educational program named "Bihar Education Project (BEP)" was first launched in the year 1991-92 in three districts of the state, namely Ranchi, Rohtas and West Champaran. In fact, this project was India's first project for "Education for all" in the field of basic education. In 1992-93, the scope of the project was extended to four other districts, namely Sitamarhi, Muzaffarpur, East Singhbhum and Chatra. The tenure of this project was till 31 March 1998.

 $Under the \, banner \, of \, the \, Council \, itself, on \, 2 \, October \,$ 1997, on the occasion of Gandhi Jayanti, a new central scheme "District Primary Education Programme (DPEP)" was launched in the state, whose area of operation was extended to ten other educational districts along with the above mentioned seven districts. Thus, the District Primary Education Programmeoperatedfrom October 1997 to 31 March 2005, covered 17 20 districts to 534 revenue blocks in all the 38 districts educational (27 revenue) districts of the state - (1) West Champaran, (2) Sitamarhi (including Sheohar), (3) Muzaffarpur, (4) Rohtas (including Kaimur), (5) Chatra, (6) Ranchi, (7) East Singhbhum, (8) Purnia (including Araria and Kishanganj), (9) Darbhanga, (10) Vaishali, (11) Bhojpur (including Buxar), (12)

Gaya, (13) Munger (including Jamui, Lakhisarai and Sheikhpura), (14) Bhagalpur (including Banka), (15) Dumka, (16) Hazaribagh (including Koderma), (17) West Singhbhum.

After the division of Bihar on 15 November 2000, under the District Primary Education Programme 11 educational districts (20 revenue districts) remained in Bihar state and the remaining 6 educational districts (7 revenue districts) went to Jharkhand state. While the "Bihar Education Project" was being implemented entirely with the grant of UNICEF, the "District Primary Education Programme" was implemented by the Central Government with the help of soft loan from the World Bank (85 percent share) and the joint efforts of the Bihar Government (15 percent share).

In the year 2001, the Central Government started the "Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan (SSA)" programme to achieve the goal of universalization of elementary education in all the districts of all the states of India, the responsibility of implementation of which in the state was given to the "Bihar Education Project Council". Thus, the scope of the BEPCexpanded from of Bihar state. From 1 April 2010, the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Elementary Education Act, 2009 has been implemented throughout India and given legal validity. To meet the standards, norms and conditions of the Right to Education Act, some standards of the Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan were changed.

> The education system of India is divided into many sections such as early childhood education, primary education, elementary education, secondary education, higher secondary education etc. and large scale dropouts are seen during admission from one faculty to another. To deal with this situation, in the financial year 2018-19, the Government of India brought all educational schemes such as Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan, Rashtriya Madhyamik Shiksha Abhiyan and teacher education under one umbrella so that education from early childhood education to class 12 is conducted and made available to children under one system and the structure of schools is also developed in the same manner. This centralized scheme, operating in the name of "Samagra Shiksha", is expected to prove to be a milestone in the field of education in India. Also, "Samagra Shiksha" will prove vehicle for the successful implementation of National Education Policy 2020.

The main works done under the programmes implemented in different phases by "Bihar Education Project Council", namely, Bihar Education Project, District Primary Education Programme, Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan, Samagra Shiksha are-(1) Teacher training for joyful teaching and cluster level orientation for remedial teaching, (2) Free textbooks, (3) Formation/ Reorganisation and Empowerment of Village/School Education Committees, (4) Grant to School Education Committees for school development, maintenance and teaching learning material, (5) Grant for bench-desks to middle schools, (6) Establishment of Apna/Angana Vidyalaya, Utpreran, Utkarsh, Unnayan, Residential/Non-Residential Special Centres for alternative education, (7) Establishment of Lok ShikshanKendras under Education Guarantee Scheme (EGS), (8) Training/Empowerment of Balwadi Centre, Balvarg in Schools and Anganwadi Centres under Early Childhood Education, (9) Block Resource Centre (BRC), Cluster Resource Centre (CRC), School Building without Building, Additional Classroom, New School Building, Girls Building, Toilet, Boundary Wall, Mahila Kutir, Kitchen Shed, Renovation of School Building, Innovative Construction, Construction of Anganwadi Centres under Civil Works, (9) Establishment and Operation of Kasturba Gandhi Balika Vidyalaya (KGBV), (10) National Programme for Education of Girls at Primary Level (NPEGEL), (11) Enrolment, Retention and Quality Education to Unenrolled and Disabled Children, (12) School uniforms for children from class 1 to class 8, (13) Planning, training and salary payment of Panchayat, Prakhand and Nagar teachers through Panchayati Raj Institutions in proportion to the enrolled students, (14) Availability of inclusive education and equipment to disabled children, (15) Collection, analysis and diagnostic action of educational data, (16) Operation of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose hostels, (17) Availability of LEP/FLN kits to children/ schools, (18) Self DefenceMartial Arts training to girls, (19) Vocational education in schools, (20) Ratificationand empowerment of officers/employees.

Along with the establishment of the council, its operational memorandum and rules were formulated in which it was clearly stated regarding the creation of necessary posts in the Bihar Education Project Council and their salaries that "the pay scale in respect of the posts to be created by the Executive Committee will be in accordance with the pay scale of the Central Government or the State Government". But the irony is that the personnel working in mission mode in the Council are working on the fourth pay scale fixed in February 1998 and are deprived of the fifth, sixth and seventh pay scales. After the implementation of the Right to Education Act, the Government of India made many changes in the framework of the Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan and a plan was made to integrate the Education Department and the Implementation Society to strengthen the management structure.

Before the implementation of the Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan program, the management structure of the Bihar Education Project Council was completely different from the Education Department. After the implementation of the program, during the integration of both the institutions, officials of the Education Department started getting posted in the Bihar Education Project Council, but the officials / employees of the council were not posted on departmental posts. As a result, due to the departmental posts being vacant on a large scale, the work of the Education Department is affected from the state level to the block level.

Al and media freedom: A double-edged sword

DAMIAN RADCLIFFE

Artificial intelligence is reshaping multiple industries, including journalism. In the week of World Press Freedom Day, it's worth considering how technology can impact media freedom. This picture is complex. On the one hand, AI, and generative AI, can be a powerful tool to support newsrooms, but it can also be weaponized

Globally, the state of press freedom was classified as a "difficult situation" in the latest RSF World Press Freedom Index, the first time this label has been used to categorize the overall state of media freedom worldwide

Against this backdrop, the U.N. notes that "AI brings new risks." "It can be used to spread false or misleading information," they observe, and "increase online hate speech, and support new types of censorship."

At the same time, AI can be used to filter the viewpoints that audiences are exposed to, as well as monitor journalists and citizens. Furthermore. "there are growing worries that AI may make global media too similar," the U.N. reflects, as AI-driven content may homogenize reporting, and potentially "push out smaller media outlets."

Navigating these challenges is crucial for newsrooms, journalists, and media advocates worldwide, especially at a time when press freedom is under increasing threat. In doing this, AI can also be used to pushback against these challenges. Here's a walkthrough of both sides

Four ways AI threatens media freedom (1) Surveillance and targeting

AI technologies are increasingly being used to monitor and intimidate journalists. As the Journal of Democracy shares, "AI-driven bots and algorithms bombard activists, journalists, and opposition figures with harassment, trolling, and false information."

Governments and other actors deploy facial recognition systems, predictive analytics, and other AI surveillance tools to track reporters' movements, monitor online activities, and suppress dissent and critical reporting.

These tactics are not new. As far back as 2021, at least 180 journalists around the world were known to have been targeted by Pegasus, a form of spyware. But each wave of AI enables this anti-journalistic aggression to intensify.

The rise in AI-powered surveillance increases the risks faced by reporters and their sources, especially those covering investigative issues. This may have a chilling effect on the reporting of subjects such as corruption, human rights abuses, independent voices online. Algorithms can quickly detect and remove politically sensitive content. China's "Great Firewall" is the most prominent example of this, but other nations are also fol-

Freedom House observes that AI can enable this type of activity to happen "at a speed and scale and organized crime, which journalists should be able to pursue without reprisal. (2) Deepfakes and disinformation

The spread of misinformation through AIgenerated deepfakes is another area where concerns have been expressed for some time. These anxieties have only heightened as the technology that makes it possible to manipulate or fabricate videos, images, or audio, has improved.

Although some of these earlier efforts were quickly debunked, they demonstrated how AI can be used to spread misinformation. The speed with which this is evolving, incorporating memes, fake audio, AI-faked celebrity endorsements and more, makes it harder than ever for journalists - and their audiences — to discern fact from fiction.

For journalists, there's a growing challenge of being able to verify these fakes. Spreading misinformation, however inadvertently, can undermine trust in journalism. Moreover, journalists can also fall victim to themselves being deepfaked and impersonated, making the need to safeguard their identities and reputations more important than ever.

(3) Automated censorship Authoritarian regimes are increasingly deploying AI-driven moderation tools to suppress that would be impossible for human censors or less sophisticated technical methods." Moreover. this can be done in a manner that can be hard to detect, "minimizing public backlash and reducing the political cost to those in power."

This can undermine independent journalism, and public discourse, making it increasingly difficult to share content that governments do not want to see online.

(4) Economic pressures and job losses

Beyond direct action against journalists and newsrooms, AI is indirectly threatening media freedom by reshaping the economics of the news industry. Newsrooms, especially those already under financial strain, are increasingly using AI tools for automating or speeding up tasks like content generation, editing and distribution. In tandem, the growing capabilities of AI may lead to job losses, and the hollowing out of original

Some audiences appear to be alive to this $threat.\,A\,2024\,survey\,by\,the\,Pew\,Research\,Center$ found that 59% of Americans say AI will lead to fewer jobs for journalists in the next two decades, with views currently mixed on what this means for the type of news that is produced and people

If AI accelerates the shift away from original reporting toward mass-produced content, a longterm consequence will not just be fewer newsroom iobs, but a diminished public square, both of which are issues we should all be concerned about.

How AI can help protect and promote media

Despite these very real threats, it's not all doom and gloom. AI also holds promise as a tool that can potentially strengthen journalism and help defend media freedom.

(1) Identifying and combating disinformation Although journalists should be wary of an $over reliance \, on \, AI \, tools, the \, technology \, can \, support \,$ efforts to detect deepfakes and misinformation, as well as improve wider fact-checking efforts.

These tools may not be as effective for lesser spoken languages at present, but that may change as the technology evolves. Moreover, as AI's influence in shaping, creating and disseminating disinformation continues, we will increasingly need to add AI to our journalist's toolkit in order

Products like NewsGuard's AI Safety Suite, "aided by proprietary machine-learning processes, identify false claims spreading online in real time, globally." We can expect these types of AI services to become increasingly integrated into newsroom workflows. As the Indian journalist Karen Rebelo told Nieman Lab last year, given the growing complexity of our information ecosystems, "you can no longer solely rely on your human skills as

(2) Protecting journalists' safety and identity Alis also being used by some news outlets to enhance digital security. Last year in Venezuela, independent media outlets protected the identities of their journalists by creating a show using AI-generated anchors.

Meanwhile, at the International Journalism Festival in Perugia last month, an initiative called JESS (Journalist Expert Safety Support) was announced. The AI-powered tool will source security tips from different media organizations and NGOs, and distribute it to newsrooms that may not have access to this level of guidance. The tool is expected to roll out globally next year, with availability in multiple languages.

These quick examples demonstrate how AI, when used creatively and responsibly, can offer new forms of protection for journalists operating under threat. We can expect to see more advances in this space as newsrooms and NGOs consider how AI can be a friend, as well as a potential foe. (3) Amplifying underreported stories

AI can help journalists discover stories hidden in public documents and data, or by sending alerts when something out of the ordinary has happened. U.K. academic Paul Bradshaw offers a raft of examples of AI in action in this way, on his Online Journalism Blog.

Not only can AI help to identify patterns and anomalies, but it can also help to ensure that reporting on these matters reaches the widest possible audience. The ability of generative AI to create audio summaries, or translate content into different languages, are just two of the ways stories can be disseminated in fresh ways and to those who might otherwise not consume it.

Collectively, these efforts - uncovering important stories and getting as many eyeballs on them as possible - will be fundamental to the continued health of journalism. AI can therefore help in both the impact and distribution of journalism, both of which will be integral to its future. Looking ahead

Given Al's potential to both harm and help journalism, it is essential that we continue to have an active dialogue about the pros and cons of this fast-changing technology. While AI offers tools for efficiency and new products, it is not a panacea for issues of news avoidance, low levels of trust, or the economic woes of the journalism industry.

Similarly, although it can present challenges for the work that journalists do and how they do it, some of these issues can be mitigated. To do that, it is essential for us to understand how AI works, how it is evolving, and the implications for journalism. Newsrooms and journalists must have access to the right training, policies and research, to combat this.

The future of media freedom in the AI era will be shaped by choices made by governments, tech companies, civil society - and by journalists and media organizations. Pooling expertise will be essential. As will voices continuing to champion media freedom at a time when AI is shaping, and redefining, this critical issue and the world around us.

I look forward to witnessing, and potentially being part, of that conversation.

20-year-old legacy issue of similar EPIC numbers resolved

JAMMU: In its effort to sanitize the electoral rolls and keep them updated, ECI has resolved a nearly 20-year-old legacy issue of similar EPIC numbers which got erroneously issued to genuine electors just because similar series were used by different EROs in such cases since 2005.

To resolve this long pending problem, the entire electoral database of over 99-crore electors was searched by CEOs of all the 36 States/UTs and EROs of all the 4123 Assembly constituencies across India in all the 10.50 lakh polling stations.

On an average there are about 1000 electors per polling station. The number of similar EPIC numbers found were miniscule, i.e. averaging to around 1(one) in 4 (four) polling stations.

During the field level verification, it was found that holders of such similar EPIC numbers were genuine electors in different assembly constituencies and different polling

All such electors have since been issued new EPIC cards with new numbers.

The genesis of the issue has been traced from 2005, when various States/ UTs were using Assembly Constituency-wise different alphanumeric series in a decentralised

These series had to be changed again in 2008, after delimitation of the constituencies. During this period, some ACs erroneously continued to use either the old series or because of typographic errors they used the series allotted to some other constituencies.

Every voter's name is in the electoral roll of the Polling station, where he/she is an ordinary resident.

Having had an EPIC of similar number never enabled any such person to vote at any other polling station. Thus, the issue of a similar EPIC could not have impacted the results of any elections.

PART-II

The Concept of God in Attar's Mantiq-ut-Tayr

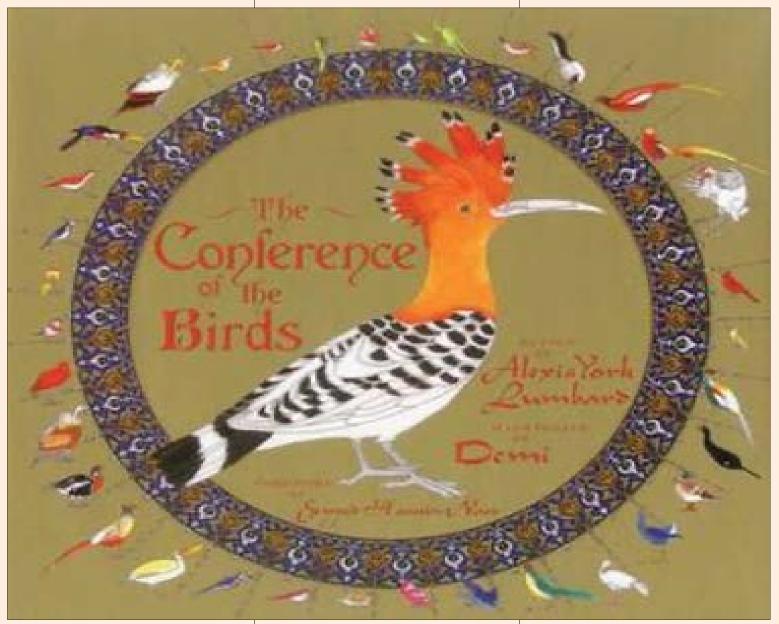

SHOWKAT AHMAD WANI

God, the "Friend" (Dost), is the beloved whose intimate bond with the seeker is steeped in divine love ('ishq). His "nobility" (sharaf) encompasses sublime attributes—beauty, mercy, and majesty. A purified heart mirrors these divine qualities (sifat), enabling the seeker to bask in God's presence. This reflection aligns with takhalluq (adopting divine traits) and beyond grasp, yet His light illuminates the seeker's heart through grace. The "Friend's nobility" kindles divine love, driving the seeker toward fana, while the "atoms of the Whole" affirm wahdat al-wujud, uniting creation in God's singular reality. The heart, as mirror and throne, is the crucible for divine encounter, achieved through love, purification, and the realization of God's indwelling presence.

"The Simorgh's shadow and Himself are one; Seek them together, twinned in unison. But you are lost in vague uncertainty – Pass beyond shadows to Reality." that embraces both God's transcendence (tanzih) and immanence (tashbih). The seeker is thus invited to behold creation as a divine sign (ayat), in accordance with Qur'an 41:53: "We will show them Our signs on the horizons and within themselves." This revelation prepares the wayfarer for the Valley of Wonder (hayrat), where the unity of God's Essence and His manifestations overwhelms the intellect with awe. God's oneness encompasses both His transcendent Essence and His immanent expressions, demanding a discerning vision that steers clear of both pantheistic dissolution and dualistic fragmentation.

The birds are chastised for their hesitancy, ensnared in "vague uncertainty" born of their inability to ap-foreshadows fana, where the ego dissolves, leaving only God's radiance. Central to the valley of love, this evokes the seeker's ardent yearning for the Divine, whose Asma' al-Husna (Beautiful Names) become manifest through inner contemplation.

God, the "sovereign" (malik), radiates divine glory (jalal), a luminous outpouring that illuminates the heart with spiritual awakening. This divine light (nur) signifies gnosis (ma'rifat), where the seeker beholds God's majesty and truth. The heart becomes a chalice for divine radiance, aligning with the valley of unity (tawhid), where God's singular dominion reigns supreme. This echoes the Qur'anic metaphor of God as the "Light of the heavens and the earth" (Qur'an 24:35). God's transcendent glory is tempered by His grace, making His light accessible to the seeker.

The "palace" symbolizes the purified heart, now a sanctified throne for God's sovereign presence. "Reigns in proper state" declares God's full majesty manifested when the heart is cleansed of impurities. In Sufi thought, the heart becomes a locus of divine manifestation (tajalli), resonating with the valley of contentment (qana'a), where the seeker finds serenity in God's indwelling. The royal imagery, prevalent in Persian poetry, exalts God's kingship (mulk) within the intimate chamber of the soul, affirming His immanence.

The seeker is urged to seek God, the "king," within the heart, prioritizing introspection over external quests. "His soul" (jan) denotes God's life-giving essence, intimately present within the seeker. This aligns with the prophetic maxim, "Know yourself, and you will know your Lord," and prepares the seeker for the valley of unity (tawhid), where God's oneness is realized within. The "king" underscores divine authority, while "soul" emphasizes God's living presence, heralding the realization of wahdat al-wujud. God's nearness is affirmed, accessible through self-knowledge.

affirmed, accessible through self-knowledge.
God's essence (dhat) permeates every particle of creation, from the infinitesimal "atoms" to the boundless "Whole." This encapsulates wahdat al-wujud, where God is the singular reality underlying all existence. Every fragment of creation is a divine sign (ayat), as in (Qur'an 41:53) ("We will show them Our signs in the horizons and within themselves"). This aligns with the valley of wonder (hayrat), where the seeker is awestruck by God's all-encompassing presence, bridging microcosm and macrocosm in divine unity.

God is immanent, dwelling within the heart's "palace" and every "atom" of creation, accessible through purification and introspection. His transcendence, as the "sovereign" with radiant "glory," elevates Him

The Simorgh symbolizes God, the Absolute Reality (al-Haqq), while His "shadow" signifies His manifestations—creation, human souls, and divine attributes. Affirming their oneness collapses the dualistic chasm between Creator and creation, embodying wahdat alwujud (the unity of being), a metaphysical doctrine later crystallized by Ibn al- Arabi but already luminously envisioned in Attar's mystical narrative. Creation, as the "shadow," is not autonomous but a theophany (tajalli), existing solely by virtue of God's Reality—like a shadow inseparable from its source. This vision aligns seamlessly with the Valley of Unity (tawhid), wherein the seeker discerns all existence as a mirror reflecting the singular Divine Essence, echoing the Qur'anic affirmation: "Everything will perish except His Face" (Qur'an 28:88).

Face" (Qur'an 28:88). The Hoopoe, serving as the Sufiguide, exhorts the birds to seek both the Simorgh (God's Essence) and His shadow (creation) as an indivisible whole, urging them to perceive their profound interwovenness. The phrase "twinned in unison" evokes a mystical inseparability, calling the seeker to a holistic vision prehend divine unity. Their confusion arises from a dualistic mindset—perceiving God as severed from creation, or clinging to the deceptive multiplicity of the world, thereby obstructing their journey toward the Simorgh. Attar critiques this veil of multiplicity (kathra), which obscures spiritual clarity by masking the One behind the many. This critique resonates with the Valley of Knowledge (ma rifa), where the seeker transcends ignorance to behold the truth of divine reality, echoing the Qur'anic admonition: "The life of this world is but amusement and diversion" (Qur'an 57:20).

The seekers are summoned to transcend the "shadows"—the illusory autonomy of creation, the false lights of multiplicity, and the fragmented partial truths—to attain the Absolute Reality (al-Haqq), God Himself. This summons is a clarion call to journey from the ephemeral to the eternal, from manifestation to Source.

culminating in the direct apprehension of the Divine. To "pass beyond shadows" signifies fana (annihilation of the self), wherein ego, illusion, and falsehood dissolve, and giving way to baqa (subsistence in God). This ascent mirrors the Valley of Poverty (faqr), where all that remains is the abiding Reality of God alone. The invocation of "Reality" directly evokes the Divine Name al-Haqq, prefiguring the poem's climactic moment, when the birds behold themselves as the Simorgh, thus realizing their ultimate union in divine oneness.

Formation is a luminous reflection of God's Reality, inseparable from His Essence. God is the transcendent al-Haqq, surpassing the ephemeral shadows of creation, however immanent as their very source—binding Essence and manifestation in an indivisible unity. The critique of "vague uncertainty" underscores the imperative of spiritual insight (ma rifa) to pierce the veil of multiplicity, an insight attained through disciplined striving and illuminated guidance. The call to "pass beyond shadows" exhorts the seeker to embrace zuhd (detachment) and fana, charting the inward path from illusion to Reality, culminating in the ecstatic realization of divine unity, as consummated in the birds' ultimate merging with the Simorgh.

destroyed terror hideouts with such precision that the adversary couldn't even react," he said.

"More than 100 terrorists were killed, and nine major terror centers were destroyed. The Indian forces taught a stern lesson to the Pakistan Army. Our soldiers proved that India will enter the homes of terrorists and eliminate them," he declared, evoking thunderous applause from the troops.

Saluting the courage and dedication of the Army, Air Force, Navy, BSF, and other security agencies, PM Modi, as per KNO, said, "Every Indian is proud of you. When the feet of our veer jawans touch the earth, the land becomes blessed. I have come here for your darshan. You are the inspiration for generations to come."

"It is because of your valour that the entire world is hearing about Operation Sindoor. Operation Sindoor is not an ordinary operation. The echoes of Operation Sindoor's success can be heard across the globe. It reflects India's intent, policy and strength," PM Modi told the soldiers.

He appreciated the exemplary coordination during "Operation Sindoor," noting that the joint effort of manpower and advanced military technology has given India a new strategic edge. "The adversary tried to target this and other airbases, but every attempt was foiled. Our airmen even ensured civilian aircraft were not harmed, despite Pakistan using them as shields."

PM Modi said, "We trampled terrorists in their homes. Pakistan tried to attack this base (Adampur) but failed. They tried to dare 'Hind Ki Sena'. The terrorists have now realised, you try to attack us and the result would be their destruction...massive destruction. No place in Pakistan is now safe for terrorists. The godfathers of terrorism have realised that casting an evil eye on India will only mean their destruction."

In a pointed reference to nuclear posturing by Pakistan, PM Modi stated firmly, "India will not tolerate nuclear blackmail. The terror bosses and the government that supports them will be dealt with in the same way."

PM Modi reiterated his pride in the armed forces and expressed confidence in their ability to defend the nation. "A strong security framework has become the identity of India today. I am proud of our brave soldiers and the new technology that empowers them. This is the new Bharat—resilient, resolute, and ready."

"India's army, Navy and Air Force have made the Pakistani military bite the dust. Pakistan will not get any sleep for a long time just thinking of our drones and missiles. Our intent is clear, if there is another attack, India will respond. We saw this during the surgical strikes and Balakot strikes but Operation Sindoor is the new normal," he added.

Tales Of Our

"The tales of your valour will be etched in history forever. I salute our Army, Air Force and Navy personnel," PM Modi said. Prime Minister Narendra Modi travelled to the Adampur air base in Punjab on Tuesday morning and interacted with air force personnel, who have been in the thick of action during the recent conflict with Pakistan.

The prime minister's visit comes after days of intense conflict between India and Pakistan following Indian strikes on terror sites in the neighbouring country on May 7 under Operation Sindoor. (Agencies) following the killing of 26 tourists in Pahalgam.

According to the official, Shahid Kuttay, son of Mohammad Yousuf Kuttay from Chotipora Heerpora, had reportedly joined LeT on March 8, 2023, and was classified as a Category-A terrorist. "He was a key figure in several high-profile terror incidents in south Kashmir, including the firing at Danish Resort on April 8, 2024, which injured two German tourists and their driver. He was also accused of the targeted killing of a BJP Sarpanch in Heerpora on May 18, 2024, and is suspected to have been involved in the killing of a Territorial Army personnel in Behibagh, Kulgam, on February 3, 2025," he said.

The second terrorist, Adnan Shafi Dar, son of Mohammad Shafi Dar from Wanduna Melhora, Shopian, had joined LeT on October 18, 2024, and was classified as a Category-C terrorist. He was involved in the killing of a non-local labourer at Wachi, Shopian, on the same day he joined the group, the official said.

The third terrorist, Ehsan from Murran, who reportedly joined in September 2023, was involved in multiple terror cases, according to police sources.

Security forces are continuing search and sanitisation operations in the area.

An official said the elimination of terrorists and the recovery of arms and ammunition from the encounter site mark a blow to LeT's operational capabilities in the region.

Awareness Drive

The ministry has asked state governments to coordinate with relevant departments like agriculture, fisheries, panchayati raj and district collectors to begin planning immediately.

The Forest Rights Act, 2006, recognises the rights of tribals and forest-dependent communities over the land they have lived on and protected for generations.

However, its implementation has been marked by violations, with policy experts claiming that a large number of claims were wrongly rejected.

In 2019, while hearing a plea filed by a wildlife NGO, the Supreme Court ordered the eviction of more than 17 lakh families whose FRA claims were rejected.

Following nationwide protests, the court put the order on hold in February 2019 and directed a review of the rejected claims.

However, many tribal and forest-dependent communities allege that the review process remained flawed, with both the central and state governments failing to sincerely implement the law.

More than 51 lakh claims have been received under the Act till January 31 this year, with over one-third of them rejected, official data show.

The highest number of claims were received in Chhattisgarh (9.41 lakh), followed by Odisha (7.20 lakh), Telangana (6.55 lakh), Madhya Pradesh (6.27 lakh) and Maharashtra (4.09 lakh).

Chhattisgarh also tops the list in terms of rejections, with more than 4 lakh claims turned down. Madhya Pradesh has rejected over 3.22 lakh claims, followed by Maharashtra (1.72 lakh), Odisha (1.44 lakh), and Jharkhand (28,107). (Agencies)

Shamspora, Baghbela, Batpora, and Tarboni. He took stock of the damage to residential structures and listened to the grievances of the affected residents.

Assuring support from the administration, he said: "The affected families have shown remarkable courage in the face of adversity. Their resilience is inspiring. The government stands shoulder to shoulder with them. Their pain will not go unnoticed, and every possible step will be taken to help them rebuild their lives with dignity and renewed hope."

He further emphasized that ensuring the safety, support, and swift rehabilitation of affected families remains government's top priority.

The Chief Minister also visited Sub-District Hospital, Tangdhar, to review the availability and quality of healthcare services in the border area. He inspected key departments including Outpatient and Inpatient Units, Gynaecology, Operation Theatre, Ultrasonography, and X-Ray facilities. Interacting with the Chief Medical Officer, doctors, and staff, he directed them to work with utmost dedication and compassion to serve the people in this far-flung area.

He also spoke to patients and attendants to understand their concerns and degree of satisfaction with medical services.

Speaking to the media, CM Omar Abdullah said he had come personally to assess the damages caused by shelling and reiterated that adequate help would be provided to the victims as part of relief and rehabilitation measures.

While inspecting community bunkers in Tangdhar, the Chief Minister acknowledged their critical role during crises.

"These structures are a lifeline during times of escalation. We will ensure the construction of additional bunkers to safeguard our people living in vulnerable areas," he said.

During the visit, the Chief Minister also inspected the Hydel Power Project at Gundi Shart, the progress of which had been affected due to recent hostilities. He assured that the project would be completed within the stipulated timeline.

MEA dismisses

Social, the US President said: "Additionally, I will work with you both (India and Pakistan) to see if, after a "thousand years," a solution can be arrived at concerning Kashmir."

Asked about the discussions that took place between India and US leadership between May 7 and 10, Jaiswal said: "There were conversations between Indian and US leaders between May 7 and May 10, but no discussion on trade were held."

"As regards the conversations with other nations, the message from India was clear and consistent. "And exactly the same message that we were conveying from public platforms was the one conveyed in private conversations. It was that India was responding to the 22nd April terrorist attack. However, if the Pakistani armed forces fire, Indian armed forces will fire back; if Pakistan stops, India will also stop."

He said, "This was also the message that was conveyed to the Pakistani side at the time of the commencement of Operation Sindoor, which was not heeded to by the Pakistani side at that time. It is natural that many foreign leaders who heard this from us would have shared it with their Pakistani interlocutors."

He said, "Links have been established between the attackers and The Resistance Front (TRF) — a known proxy of Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT)."

"TRF initially claimed responsibility for the Pahalgam attack and later denied it. We have shared detailed information with the UN Security Council's Sanctions Committee and reiterated our demand that TRF be designated as a global terrorist organization as it's the shadow outfit of Lashkar-e-Toiba," Jaiswal said.

The MEA spokesperson said that several terrorist camps and infrastructure in Bahawalpur, Muridke, and Muzaffarabad were destroyed in Indian strikes. "Pakistan's military capability has been significantly degraded," he said, "The message is clear — a nation that nurtures terrorism at an industrial scale cannot escape consequences."

On the question of the status of the Indus Waters Treaty, Jaiswal said, "Following the Cabinet Committee on Security (CCS) meeting after the Pahalgam attack India decided to suspend the Indus Waters Treaty (IWT). The spirit of goodwill and friendship that led to its signing has been betrayed. The treaty will remain in abeyance until Pakistan abjures cross-border terrorism."

He also dismissed any concerns about escalation into nuclear conflict. "All Indian military actions were within conventional bounds. India does not give in to nuclear blackmail. Our actions were calculated, legal, and strategic," Jaiswal said.

He emphasized that the international community now recognizes Pakistan's role in global terrorism. "The UN Security Council has clearly stated that the perpetrators of the Pahalgam attack must be held accountable," he said.

He added that India's right to self-defence remains nonnegotiable, and any future act of terror will be met with a swift and decisive response.

The MEA spokesman also raised concerns about the ban on Awami League in Bangladesh "without due process," calling for independent elections. On the Russia-Ukraine conflict, India reiterated its support for direct dialogue and peaceful resolution

Massive Exercise

The Chief Secretary visited shelling-hit areas to assess the situation besides inquiring about the health of the victims undergoing treatment at Government Medical College hospital, Rajouri.

"I am here to assess the ground situation after Pakistan indiscriminately targeted civilian areas. Three persons, including a senior government officer, were killed in Rajouri, dozens of houses were damaged and livestock perished," Dulloo told reporters after visiting the hospital.

He said the government wants to rehabilitate the displaced people as soon as possible and also ensure that they are adequately compensated to rebuild their homes.

"We express sympathies with the families who lost their members and also assure that the injured will be provided best healthcare for their complete recovery," the chief secretary said.

He said the displaced people will be taken back to their villages after getting a green signal from army and police authorities that the border areas were cleared of the littered explosives.

On the need to provide underground bunkers to the people in Rajouri town, he said this was for the first time that many towns like Rajouri and Poonch were hit by Pakistani shelling and "we have to think how the people would be safeguarded".

The officials said the army along with police teams are moving from village to village to track and destroy the live Pakistani shells. The operation was launched on Monday afternoon and is

India and Pakistan reached an understanding on Saturday afternoon to halt military actions with immediate effect after four days of intense cross-border drone and missile strikes.

"Even after the announcement we are taking no chances as Pakistan is habitual of doing mischief. We are waiting for things to settle down," Mohd Firdous, a resident of Manjakote sector, said.

He asked the government to sanction more underground bunkers for the border residents. "There are less number of bunkers available in the forward

Chuni Lal, a resident of Nowshera said, they have not witnessed such a heavy shelling since February 2021 when India and Pakistan renewed the ceasefire agreement.

"We want peace on the borders so that we can do our routine without the tension of cross-border firing," he said, requesting for a special financial package for the border residents whose houses were damaged in the shelling. (Agencies)

Flight operations

"I had to attend a medical appointment in Delhi, but my flight got cancelled last week. I am happy things are returning to normal," said Saqib Ahmad, a resident of Srinagar, who was seen at the airport with his boarding pass.

Another local said he was stuck in Amritsar for days. "We were very worried, but now I am going back home tomorrow. I am happy that flights are finally resuming," he said.

Notably, airport authorities have advised all travellers to remain updated through airline websites or official social media channels due to the evolving flight schedules.

Officials also said that coordination is being maintained with airlines and security agencies to ensure that all resumed operations are smooth, secure, and uninterrupted in the coming days.

Cautious Calm

cleared unexploded ordnance (UXOs). Initially with six villages were declared safe by officials following clearance operations. The process is still underway in other parts of Uri and across LoC areas, including Kupwara, Rajouri, and Poonch.

Similarly, in other LoC areas across Jammu and Kashmir, life is gradually limping back to normal after days of intense shelling and displacement — markets that remained shuttered are beginning to open and locals are stepping out to rebuild what was lost.

Though the fear still lingers, the holding of the ceasefire has instilled a sense of cautious relief among residents. "We just want peace to stay now," Jammu residents said.

Residents living along the LoC have collectively welcomed the ceasefire, describing it as a relief from fear and displacement.

Pujara Feels India 'Need A Couple Of Series' To Figure Out Kohli's Replacement

Tests poses an immediate question to India: who will be their next No. 4? And it's a question that might need some time to be answered, in the opinion of Cheteshwar Pujara.

"We will need a couple of series to figure out who is well suited to bat at No. 4, because it's an important position," Pujara told ESPNcricinfo. "You need your best batter to bat at No. 4. And at this time, I think it's still a spot where the team management will have to figure out who is the most suited player at No. 4."

It's a dilemma India haven't faced in over a decade-they have played 115 Tests since Sachin Tendulkar's retirement, and Kohli batted at No. 4 in 99 of them; Ajinkya Rahane - with nine such appearances - comes next. In the last series that Kohli missed entirely - the home Tests against England in early 2024 - India used as many as four batters at two-down: KL Rahul, Shreyas Iyer, Rajat Patidar (in two Tests) and Devdutt Padikkal. Pujara, who slotted in at No. 4 in seven Tests between 2015 and 2023, believes it might be prudent for India to "take some time" before settling in on a candidate. "There are a lot of players who are making their way into the playing XI, no one has a secured spot at this stage. It's a process which will take some time."

India's first assignment as they begin life after Kohli and Rohit Sharma is a five-match tour of England in June, which will also kickstart the new ICC World Test Championship cycle.

"It's still early days to make a call, but it will be important to see who performs well in England because someone who can perform well in England can have that No. 4 spot," Pujara said.

Could Shubman Gill - who is also in line to take over the Test captaincy following Rohit's retirement - be an option? "He [Gill] is an option, definitely. But he has been batting at No. 3," he said. "Does he want to shift his spot? Does he want to bat at No. 4? We'll have to see.

"Shubman is someone who is more capable of playing the new balls. He has been opening the innings earlier, before he started batting at No. 3. He prefers to bat when the ball is slightly hard and new. Will he be able to manage with the old ball? That is a big question at this stage."

Gill is yet to bat outside the top three in 32 Tests since making his debut in December 2020. He spent most of his early days opening, before shifting down to No. 3 at the start of the previous WTC cycle in 2023. Pujara reckons Gill is best suited to staying in the top order, but wouldn't rule out a move to No. 4.

Kohli Still Had A Lot Of Cricket Left In Him: Kirmani

irat Kohli still had plenty to offer in Test cricket and should have played on longer, reckoned former India wicketkeeper Syed Kirmani, who lauded the star batter's temperament in a glowing tribute.

Kohli announced his retirement from Test cricket on Monday, drawing the curtain on a stellar red-ball career. He represented India in 123 Tests, scoring 9,230 runs at an average of 46.85. including 30 centuries.

"He still had a lot of cricket left in him," Kirmani, a member of the 1983 World Cup-winning team, told PTI Videos.

"Everybody has to retire, but he should have played a bit more. However, I respect his decision. I wish him luck for future." Kohli led India to 40 wins in 68 Tests -- the most by any Indian skipper to date.

Kirmani lauded Kohli not just for his accomplishments on the field but also for the inspiration he provided to the next generation of cricketers.

"Virat brought consistency to the game, which made him different. He is a source of inspiration and motivation to youngsters who aspire to represent the nation, his adaptability and temperament is commendable. He is phenomenal and iconic,"

Speculation about Kohli's future in the format had intensified after the tour of Australia earlier this year.

"I don't feel he is after records. It might be the excess of cricket that led to this. Records don't matter to him. I don't think he had any sort of pressure on him while making this decision." Kirmani said.

"Questions like why he's retiring, or whether he's out of form or under pressure, don't make any sense. It's a player's Kohli's departure adds to a growing list of senior Indian players stepping away from Test cricket, following Ravichandran Ashwin in December and Rohit Sharma last week.

On the trend of players announcing retirements via social media, Kirmani said: "There is nothing wrong in that, there are press conferences, there is so much of artificial intelligence, players announcing on their instagram so that it is globally known, so in a way it helps."

It's A Huge Surprise, They Deserved On-Field Send-Off: Kumble On Kohli, Rohit's Test Retirements

NEW DELHI: The "quiet" Test retirements of Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma ahead of the tour of England came as a "huge surprise" to legendary spinner and former India captain plenty of fans and have a roaring send off.

India are scheduled to tour England for a five-match Test series starting June 20. Kumble said Kohli could have played a crucial role Anil Kumble, who believes the two senior batters deserved an on-field farewell.

Kohli announced his retirement from Test cricket on Monday, bringing the curtains down on an illustrious red-ball career in which he played 123 matches, scoring 9,230 runs at an average of 46.85, including 30 centuries.

This was after Rohit decided to step away from the longest format last Thursday.

"It is a huge surprise. Two outstanding, great players retiring on the back offew days. I didn't see it coming. It has certainly caught me off guard. I thought he has a few more years left in him, especially at the Test level," Kumble said on Kohli on 'ESPNCricinfo'.

"He's playing only the ODI format now. No player leaves with any regret and I am sure he would have thought through this and ultimately it is the player's call."

Kumble, who ended as India's leading Test wicket-takers with 619 scalps, said players of such stature should have been given an opportunity to bow out in front of fans.

"It is a very quiet exit. Every player deserves to leave on his terms, but I think on the field. We spoke about this when R Ashwin retired as well, right in the middle of the series he announced his retirement and came back (to India from Australia).

"Right now, Rohit Sharma a few days ago and then Virat Kohli. I think all three of them deserved a proper send off on the field. I strongly believe people who matter need to address that. I know it is a social media age, yes the fans want to be there, there would have been during the challenging assignment.

"Rohit has retired, he had been captain for a while and Virat is probably the most accomplished captain for India and you would have wanted one of the guys to be around.

"England is going to be tough, it is a five-Test... I think it must have come as a surprise to the selectors as well. I'm sure the selectors would have looked to pursue him."

Dressing room won't be the same: Siraj India pacer Mohammed Siraj also paid a glowing tribute to Kohli, his former captain.

"Congratulations on this wonderful career you had in test cricket. Your legacy will stay forever," Siraj wrote on 'X'.

"You have inspired generations of cricketers like me and will continue to do so with your achievements and how you have carried yourself bhaiya.

"Dressing room won't be the same without you. Thank you for always backing me and motivating me to do well. Wish you the best. King @virat.kohli Bhaiya."

Veteran India pacer Bhuvneshwar Kumar also lauded his India and Royal Challengers Bengaluru teammate for transforming the Test team.

"The way Virat captained in the test format, he deserves credit for the way we transformed as a team," he said in a release.

"I think the reason for that is Virat's nature on the ground. He is aggressive, we all know that, and in Test cricket, you need that nature somewhere, because Test cricket is a format that lasts for five days."
